Most of this Company's freight cars are built to carry twenty to thirty tons weight. Never load less than 12 tons. If shippers load to weight capacity, which is plainly marked on sides of car, it will do much to obviate delay in furnishing cars for loading and prevent detention in transit. Do not load to exceed weight capacity.

Niles, Aug, 10th. 1898.

Dear Sweetheart.

I do hope you are getting along all right, felt like crying, I felt so sorry for you dearest when I saw you just after the operation, would have been only too willing to have suffered for you if I could, they would only allow me in for a minute, I was not sure whethe you recognized me or not, did you dear? I do hope that this will end your suffering, I was so nervous when I got to Oakland that I could scarcely signe my name to my pass.

Arrived here safely and we got through transferring at noon today, like the place very well. The agent expects to be gone for three weeks or a month. Please write me a line or two dearest if you can, I am ever so anxious to hear how you are getting along, can hardly think of anything else, Please releive my suspense if you can dear. Will write you again tomorrow if it will not tire you too much to read my letters, so bye bye for this time sweet wifie. Your loving and devoted husband.

Connie.
